

The Daily Gazetteer.

NUMB. 3666

THURSDAY DECEMBER 29, 1743.

Yesterday arriv'd the Mails due from Holland, France, and Flanders.

Petersburgh, December 14.

ER. Imperial Majesty conceiving the Affair of the Marquis de Botta to be now become very serious, since, instead of Satisfaction, her Hungarian Majesty has thought fit to justify the M. de Botta, by a Rescript sent to all her Ministers in Foreign Courts, had it necessary to let the whole Transaction in a clear Light, by transmitting to her Ministers, as well the Memorial lately presented by M. Lanzinski, her Imperial Majesty's Minister at the Court of Vienna, as also a Memorial dated at Petersburg November 29, 1743, and countersigned by the Chancellor Bessucheff, and the Privy-Counsellor Brevern, shewing the Reasons why the Casaria cannot depart from her former Demand of Satisfaction on the Head of that Minister's Conduct. M. de la Chetardie met with rough Weather in his Passage from Abo, so that he was 12 Days in performing a Voyage usually done in three. As that Minister proposes to make a Publick Entry, we are told he will not have the Empress's Leave to do it till the Arrival of the Earl of Tyrwley, his Britannick Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary; but, in the mean time, he has Leave to come to Court in a private Character; which he made use of the Day after his Arrival, when he was graciously received, and her Imperial Majesty was pleased to shew him her new Apartments by Torch-light. On the 11th he had the Honour to dine with the Empress, as a Knight of the Order of St. Andrew. It is very far from being evident that this Minister has any such Interest as the foreign Gazettes mention; and its more than probable, those Insinuations may, in time, have a bad Effect here.

Stockholm, December 15. The Baron de Korff, late her Russian Majesty's Minister at the Court of Denmark, is treated here with great Respect. There seems to be no longer any Appearance of compromising Matters with the last-mentioned Court; and therefore all imaginable Pains are taken to put our Troops on such a Foot, as that, by the next Spring, we may, with the Assistance of Russia, be able to bring his Danish Majesty to Reason. It is with this View, that the Senator Baron de Cedercreutz is preparing to set out for Petersburg, on the Part of the King; and the Baron de Barck, on the Part of his Royal Highness. Baron de Ringwicht also, who is to go Minister Plenipotentiary to his Britannick Majesty, sets out this Week; and we have great Hopes from his Negotiation, since the late happy Peace with Russia, was, in great measure, owing to the generous Interposition of the same Monarch, who has always shewn a strong Inclination to assist and protect the Swedish Nation.

Leghorn, December 14. We learn by divers Vessels lately arrived from Provence, that 32 Battalions of French Troops were in full March thither from Languedoc, in order to embark at Antibes for Italy; and that with this View they had laid an Embargo on all the Vessels on that Coast. We have likewise Advice, that they are equipping at Toulon a Fleet of 22 Men of War of the Line of Battle, and this too with such Earnestness, that 6000 Men work upon them continually; and that they propose to draught 600 Men from the Gallies at Marseille, in order to man this Fleet with greater Expedition. They write from Lyons, that 22 Battalions were marching from Dauphiny into Provence; that 10,000 Spaniards were shortly expected from Catalonia; and that they were actually embarking at Barcelona, 40,000 Fusils, 40,000 Bayonets, and about 10,000 Cases of Pistols. As it is very uncertain where this Storm may fall, our Regency are not at all disposed to violate our Neutrality, and therefore have refused the quartering 8000 Men about Azezzo, as Prince Lobkowitz has demanded; who, not at all satisfied with this Precaution, has dispatched a Courier to Vienna, to represent the absolute Necessity of agreeing to his Proposal.

Genea, December 14. On the 4th of this Month a grand Council was held on the present State of Affairs, wherein it was unanimously resolved to grant Authority to the Government to borrow 9 Millions of Livres, in order to supply their present urgent Necessities. This Measure seems to confirm the Conjectures that have been made, that the Republick will not tamely part with the Marquisate of Final; and indeed, this seems to be supported by other Circumstances: For some of the Inhabitants of that Marquisate having signified their Inclinations to exert themselves in their own Defence, Care has been taken to furnish them with Arms and Ammunition for that Purpose. It begins also to be discovered, and that as a Matter of Certainty, that the Republick either has, or will put itself under the Protection of the Crown of France.

Dresden, December 16. There is certainly a Treaty on the Carpet between this Court and that of Vienna; but it is equally hard to say to what it relates, or when it will be brought to a Conclusion. Our Politicians, however, conceive of it in the following Light. They think, that the principal Aim of our Court is to obtain a clear and settled Acknowledgment of the Rights of the Electoral Family to the Austrian Succession, on the Footing upon which they were established by the late Emperor Charles VI. And, on the other Hand, they believe the Court of Vienna would willingly comply with this Demand, provided she had a proper Equivalent; that is, a specific Guaranty of the Dominions now in the Possession of her Hungarian Majesty, to which it is not impossible that our Court may be brought; but then it must be by, inserting some Clause for guarantying the Dominions of the King of the Two Sicilies. And our wisest People have conceived an Opinion, that the settling this very Article, is the only Thing that regards the Conclusion of the Treaty. This gives the utmost Pain to all true Saxon Patriots, who are thoroughly persuaded, that a strict Union between these two Courts must restore, and that very speedily too, the long lost Tranquillity of the Empire.

Vienna, December 21. There have been several Conferences held lately, to which the Russian Minister, M. Lanzinsky, has been constantly invited; but what was done in them remains an impenetrable Secret. They talk of a Promotion of Knights of the Golden Fleece, and disposing of several Civil Employments, upon the Celebration of the Marriage of Prince Charles with the Archduchess. As to our Military Preparations, they go on as well as we could either wish or expect them. It has been resolved to restore the Regiments of Foot to their old Establishment of 2300 Men, and to complete the Regiments of Cavalry to 1000 each. The Hungarian Nobility will mount on Horseback, to the Number of 25,000; and the Banner of Tamesware, which has furnished nothing during this War, will bring 10,000 Men into the Field, and the Province of Dobriezin 6000. We are also to have 10,000 Hapacks and Krackps out of Moravia; a People infinitely more terrible than the Croats, Pandours, and Talpashes.

Frankfort, December 29. The Emperor takes all imaginable Pains to assemble Recruits, in order to complete his Regiments by the Beginning of March next, that he may be in a Situation proper to execute the Plan concerted with the French Court, and which M. Chavigny will carry back with him to Paris. M. Klinegraff, his Prussian Majesty's Minister, is returned hither lately from Berlin, where his Negotiations in favour of this Court have been so successful, that his Imperial Majesty has thought fit to reward him with a Gold Box full of his own Coin, and to declare him a Member of his Council of State, with an annual Appointment of 10,000 Florins.

Extract from the Paris Alaman.

Paris, January 3. On Thursday last Madam de Castries was presented to their Majesties; M. de Castries, the Husband of that Lady, being on the Point of setting out for Montpellier, in order to take Possession of the Government of that City, which the King has been pleased to bestow upon him.

We are assured, that his Majesty has been pleased to make the Abatement desired by the First President, on the renewing of the old Duties.

It is reported, that the Marquis de Fenelon will serve in one of his Majesty's Armies the next Campaign; and it is also said, that this Minister has brought from the Hague a Plan of Pacification, conformable to the Sentiments of the Maritime Powers.

Several Battalions which had received Orders to march directly to Provence, have since been directed to march into the Savonner, in order to put an End to some Troubles that have broke out there.

They write from Marseilles, that they press there the Men out of Barks and Fisher-boats, in order to make up the Complement of the Squadron now equipping at Toulon.

We learn by a Letter from Vienna, that the Espousals of Prince Charles were to be made on the 3d Instant; and that the Ceremony of the Marriage was to be performed on the 7th.

We learn from Petersburg, that the Marquis de la

Chetardie attends regularly at all the Councils held by the Casaria, and even at all Cabinet Councils.

M. du Ricci, the Pope's Nuncio, is expected here by the Beginning of Lent.

They write from Rome of the 16th of last Month, that Cardinal Alexander Albani had demanded an Audience of his Holiness the Saturday before, in order to complain to him, that the Spaniards had stopp'd, at Pesaro and Fano, the Letters addressed to him from Vienna by the Way of Venice, as also those sent to the rest of the Austrian Ministers; but we have been since informed, that the Letters are arrived, and that his Complaint was without Foundation.

SCOTLAND.

Edinburgh, December 20. Thursday last Daniel Mackenzie, Robert Hawley, Francis Sutherland, and Anne Coventry, were brought before the Right Hon. the Lord Provost of this City, in order to stand Trial. The Indictment recited a Complication of Thefts, and concluded, that they ought to be punished with the Pain of Law. The Council for the Pannels made a very handsome Defence, and objected to the Relevancy, chiefly on this Ground, that as they were only charged with petty Thefts, by the Laws in all Ages, and even the Moral Law, it could infer no Capital Punishment, but an Arbitrary one. But it was replied with great Judgment, that the Pannels were indicted, not for one Theft, or a few, but for a continued Series of Thefts, carried on for Years; which, by the Laws of all Countries, inferred Capital Punishment. The Trial was adjourned to the 28th Instant, between, and which Time, Parties were ordered to give in their Informations.

The same Day came on, before the Lords of Justiciary, the Trial of James Macpherson for Horse-stealing, who was yesterday brought to the Bar, the Witnesses examined, and the Jury about Six at Night inclosed; and this Day at One o'Clock they returned a Verdict, finding him guilty, Art and Part, of stealing two Horses libelled, and is to receive Sentence the 6th of January next.

To the AUTHOR, &c.

SIR,

Reading a Letter in your Paper of the 23d Instant, signed George Cadogan, in which he would willingly cast some injurious Reflections on my Conduct during the Attempt made against St. Augustine: I flatter myself, that a Vindication of my Character will be thought as justifiable an Apology for an Intrusion on the Publick, as Mr. Cadogan has made for his intended Defamation. Yet, considering that the Disputes of private Persons can interest or entertain but a Few, I had almost resolved not to answer him; but apprehending that my Silence might, by Gentlemen who are Strangers to the Transactions, be construed as a Concession, I shall only beg Leave to take Notice, that my whole Conduct, during the Time of my Command on that Expedition, has stood the Enquiry of a British Government, and found worthy of the Thanks of both Houses of Assembly; for which Reason, I think it beneath me to reply to his low Aspersions. The Report of the Committee appointed to enquire into the Causes of the Disappointment of Success in the Expedition against St. Augustine, was published in South Carolina, by Order of both Houses of Assembly, and is now republished here in London; which Report contains the Matters of Facts themselves, which cannot prevaricate. There are the General's own Letters, which are the surest Testimonies of his Opinion; and to which I appeal for the Justification of my Conduct during that Expedition.

With regard to the last Paragraph of Mr. Cadogan's Letter, wherein I am called upon to swear in England what he supposes me to have done in Carolina; I answer, That whenever our Superiors shall think proper to make Enquiry into those Affairs, I shall always be ready to prove the Truth of every Thing that has been affirmed or attested by me. But I can assure Mr. Cadogan, that such a Scrutiny will not at all tend to embellish his Cause, or afford any Reputation to his pretended Zeal therein.
